

Why? Financial Companies choose how they share your personal information. Federal law gives consumers the right to limit some but not all sharing. Federal law also requires us to tell you how we collect, share and protect your personal information. Please read this notice carefully to understand what we do.

What? The types of personal information we collect and share depends on the product or service you have with us. This information can include:

- Social Security Number
- Credit History
- Credit Card and Other Debt
- Payment History
- Credit Score
- Account Balance

When you are no longer our customer, we continue to share your information as described in this notice.

How? All financial companies need to share customer’s personal information to run their everyday business. In the section below, we list the reasons financial companies can share their customer’s personal information; the reasons American National Bank chooses to share; and whether you can limit this sharing.

Who are we?

Who is providing this notice? American National Bank

What we do?

How does American National Bank protect my personal information?

To protect your personal information from unauthorized access and use, we use security measures that comply with federal law. These measures include computer safeguards and secured files and buildings. We restrict access to non-public information about you to those employees who require that information to provide products and services to you.

How does American National Bank collect my personal information?

We collect your personal information, for example, when you:

- Open an account
- Pay your bills
- Apply for a loan
- Provide account information
- Give us your contact information

We also collect your personal information from others such as credit bureaus, affiliates, and other companies.

Why can't I limit all sharing?

Federal law gives you the right to limit only:

- Sharing for affiliates' everyday business purposes—information about your creditworthiness
- Affiliates from using your information to market to you
- Sharing for non-affiliates to market to you

State laws and individual companies may give you additional rights to limit sharing.
